

You Choose: Being too smart

Directions: Read the Story. Then, following the example below, pick a question to answer. Print this page and create a story that tells about the outcome.

Grant is a sophomore in high school. He is taking senior level classes and will start taking college classes next fall. Grant also has some tendencies that set him apart from others. He has a habit of keeping all of his pencils very sharp and likes to make sure his handwriting is perfect. If Grant makes a mistake, he will take as long as necessary to make it look like new. He also comes prepared for discussion in class so he is able to participate and ask questions.

A group of his senior classmates make fun of him by focusing on his habits. They mock the way he sharpens his pencils, tell him they see mistakes and call him a nerd. They knock down his books in the hallway, call him names and mimic him when he is around.

Visit
togetheragainstabullying.org
for more activities

GUNDERSEN
HEALTH SYSTEM®

